BrandMaker Helps You Unleash Your Marketing Superpowers...

...by maximizing revenue accountability

Marketing is increasingly expected to know and deliver ROI in all its activities, requiring extensive metrics that are integrated and incontrovertible. It also requires systems to be able to translate from content development, to exposure, to response, to financial performance. It also requires sophisticated 'what-if' modeling that lets marketers compare and select strategic directions.

...by increasing agility

Marketing's clients like to imagine "marketing-in-a-box" ready to go to address market opportunities. Thus, marketing must become increasingly agile, which for a global organization requires a central system that delivers the real time analytics that allow marketing to allocate budget most effectively for the greatest return.

...by increasing budget visibility.

The success of budget management rises and falls with visibility into real-time numbers. Where we are exactly, at this moment in time, is essential to maximizing effectiveness and is the basis for effective budget planning.

What You Gain

In a world where ERP systems force an accounting perspective on marketing, BrandMaker gives marketers the tools to manage their budget from a marketing viewpoint. BrandMaker gives CMOs and their teams new-found agility with real-time visibility into, and control over the marketing budget.

- Marketing has the agility to allocate its budget for greater impact because the team now has the ability to know what has been spent, what is remaining, and how the campaigns have performed globally, regionally, and locally.
- More than ever before, marketing can represent its expenditures and opportunities to the finance and sales teams.
- Global marketing management is more agile with real-time visibility into local expenditures up to the regional and global levels.
- Marketers can now see budget and content as two sides of the same coin, with the ability to connect the performance of creative work to financial planned activities.
